

Dr Samantha Hargreaves

MBBS (Hons) FRANZCOG

Obstetrician/Gynaecologist

Dr Samantha Hargreaves works at St Vincent's Private Hospital Fitzroy.

Samantha graduated in medicine from Monash University in 1990 and obtained her fellowship in obstetrics and gynaecology in 2000.

Her interests include high risk obstetrics, minimally invasive laparoscopic surgery and menstrual disorders.

She is currently in private practice and holds a specialist appointment at The Royal Women's Hospital in Melbourne in the advanced laparoscopic unit.

Dr Hargreaves is part of a multidisciplinary team of doctors, nurses and midwives who travel to Mongolia annually since 2010 to provide teaching in women's health to their Mongolian colleagues. With support from the Epworth medical foundation she has established a Melbourne-based scholarship program for selected Mongolian doctors.

She is deputy Chair of the Barbara May foundation, an Australian-based NGO committed to improving maternity outcomes for poor women in Ethiopia and Tanzania.
